Judge Howard Leaves Supreme Court Bench

Troy Jurist Resigns After Serving 22 Years as Supreme Court Justice—Was Scheduled to Hold March Term of Court Here—Resumes Private Practice and Politics.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Albany, N. Y., March 3.—Supreme Court Justice Wesley O. Howard of Troy, today handed his resignation to Governor Smith. He has been on the Supreme court bench since 1902. He will devote himself to the practice of law.

"This job was harder to get than to get rid of," said Judge Howard, smiling as he handed the governor his resignation.

He is expected to resume an active interest in Republican politics.

Judge Howard was to have opened the March term of the Supreme court here on Monday but last week notified County Clerk Saxo to adjourn the opening date to Monday, March 9. Since then it has been rumored he contemplated resigning from the bench.

Judge Howard was elected in 1902 to the Supreme court bench in this district and was re-elected in 1910, serving as Supreme court justice for a period of twenty-two years. Five years of that time he served as a member of the appellate division.

It is expected that the appellate division, which is now in session, will designate a justice from this district to preside at the March term of court here, convening on Monday, March 9.

A number of the trial and grand jurors who had not been notified of the adjournment of the March term of court arrived at the court house Monday afternoon and were notified by Deputy County Clerk Geroldsek of the one week's adjournment. All trial and grand jurors drawn for the term are to appear next Monday, March 9, at 2 o'clock, when the usual court work will be taken up.

Government Did Not Lose on Bonds

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, March 3.—A vigorous denial that the government has lost any appreciable sum by the cashing of Liberty bonds and other bonds fraudulently issued in duplicate, was made today at the treasury department.

The treasury's denial was a flat contradiction to the sensational charges contained in the official report of the congressional investigating committee, which late yesterday declared there had been wide spread duplication of government bonds and falsification of records in the treasury to conceal the thefts.

While the congressional report did not estimate the sum supposed to have been lost by the government, the committee member said it might range from $5,000,000 to $10,000,000.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon prepared a formal letter to President Coolidge today denying the charges of the investigating committee of Congress. It will be made public later.

Instead of losses aggregating millions of dollars, as charged by the congressional committee, the treasurer said that there had been only minor duplication and loss in the handling of Liberty loan issues, which approximated $20,000,000,000 and the total loss to the government would be slightly in excess of $12,000. A few bonds were stolen from the treasury and re-sold to the government. It was admitted, but in small denominations and represented petty larceny instead of gigantic fraud charged by the committee.

The report of the congressional committee caused a genuine sensation at the treasury and throughout government departments. Among other things, the majority report alleged:

1. That there has been wide spread bond duplication.
2. That the treasury has been evasive and contradictory in attempting to explain the matter.
3. That treasury records have been falsified.
4. That questionable methods have been followed in paying bonds and keeping books.
5. That "substantial losses" to the government have been incurred.
6. That the treasury has been "indifferent" to bond duplication.
7. That the treasury's own records are so conflicting that it is impossible to determine just how much has been lost.

LOWMAN REPRESENTS STATE AT INAUGURAL
By Telegram to The Freeman.
Albany, N. Y., March 3.—Lieutenant Governor Seymour Lowman left for Washington today to represent New York state at the inauguration of President Coolidge tomorrow. He was requested by Governor Smith to represent the state at the national capital.

Attempt to Rob White Eagle Hall

Some One Attempted to Burglarize It Saturday Night, but Was Scared Away—Frank Kryeski Under Arrest Charged With Being the Would-be Burglar.

Frank Kryeski was arrested by the police Monday afternoon on a warrant obtained by James Prusack, president of the Polish Sick and Aid Society, who own White Eagle Hall on Delaware avenue, charging the young man with an attempt to commit the crime of burglary in the third degree. This morning the hearing was adjourned for one week and Judge Harry E. Schirrick fixed bail at $750 which was furnished.

Some time Saturday night an attempt was made to break into the hall by using a screw driver with which a rear window was pried open. When the window was partly opened the intruder became frightened and ran away.

According to the information lodged with the police by Mr. Prusack, the intruder was identified by a woman who saw the attempt made. Kryeski's arrest followed.

William Ummerle was arrested on a charge of public intoxication on Monday by Officer Barnen. He paid a $5 fine in police court.

Cashin Stays on Prohibition Job

Continues in Charge of Prosecution of Prohibition Law Offenders Under New United States District Attorney.

John M. Cashin of this will remain in charge of the prosecution of the prohibition department of the United States district attorney's office for the Southern district of New York under Emory R. Buckner, who was sworn in as United States attorney on Monday, succeeding Col. William Hayward, who resigned some time ago.

The oath of office was administered to Mr. Buckner by Judge A. N. Hand. Afterward Mr. Buckner issued a statement that he had resigned from the law firm of Root, Clark, Buckner & Hand. Among the appointments of assistants which he announced were those of Robert E. Manly, Sherwood E. Hall and John M. Harlan. Mr. Harlan is a grandson of the late Justice Harlan of the United States Supreme court and a son of John M. Harlan, who was twice a candidate for mayor of Chicago. He also announced that Mr. Cashin would remain in charge of prohibition law prosecutions.

During the day it was learned that Mr. Buckner is especially interested in the strict observance of the prohibition law and adequate punishment for its violators.

Large Number of Liquor Cases.
His position in this respect was revealed when he sat for a long time in Judge Bondy's court and took part in the prosecution of a large number of liquor cases. Mr. Buckner freely advised Mr. Cashin and Sidney Prager, his assistants conducting the trials, and several times addressed the court. At the end of the day it was reported that the average of the fines imposed was $250, which is about $150 more than previous averages.

Concerning the work of his office Mr. Buckner said:

"There are 8,000 criminal cases awaiting trial, of which 2,000 are liquor cases, and there are 4,000 civil cases. This work cannot be handled efficiently without a much larger staff of assistants, who ought to be paid living wages. The most immediate need is the appointment of eight or ten additional judges. The Federal judges in this district are the hardest working men I know. In making my investigation the past two weeks I have found them working nights, Sundays and holidays. We cannot very well try cases without judges."

Coolidge Will Use Own Bible

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, March 3.—President Coolidge will take the oath of office on a Bible given him by his grandmother when he was a very small boy, and not upon the family Bible which is stored in the swarming in ceremonies in August, 1923, at his Plymouth, Vermont home.

White House officials admitted that they had made a mistake when they announced last week that Colonel John Coolidge, the president's father, was bringing with him to Washington the family Bible.

The president actually learned to read from the Bible his grandmother gave him, and he treasures it as one of his valuable possessions.

Particularly the president is fond of the first chapter of John and the Bible will be opened to this spot when he takes the oath.

Assassin Was Tracked Down.
By Telegram to The Freeman.
Rome, March 3.—The assassin of former Finance Minister Garibaldi of Albania, who was murdered at Paris last night, was tracked down today as an Albanian tradesman named Stamella. Stamella fired three shots at the official, killing him instantly. He refused to give any reason for his act.

King George Leaves Bed.
By Telegram to The Freeman.
London, March 3.—King George was able to get up today from an attack of bronchitis that he was attacked last night. It is hoped his recovery will be a permanent one.

Washington in Readiness for Inauguration

President's Father and Son and Mrs. Coolidge's Mother at Executive Mansion—Woman Governor Heads State Executives Who Gather for Ceremony.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, March 3.—Thousands of inaugural visitors poured into the national capital today witness the quadrennial drama of change in administrations tomorrow.

Led by nearly a score of state governors and executives the visitors came by train and automobiles filled the hotels to capacity. By tomorrow, when Calvin Coolidge and General Charles G. Dawes pass down Pennsylvania avenue, from the White House to the capitol, there will be upward of 50,000 people thronging the streets and the wooden stands along the line of march, according to estimates made today by inaugural officials.

Weather Uncertain.
A note of concern was struck today by the weather bureau. On Saturday, the forecast predicted a fair, sunny day, but this morning he was not so sure. The latest forecast is for cloudy, cold weather with a possibility of rain. A rainy forenoon would put a severe damper on the festivities and deplete the crowds.

Save for the transaction of routine business by clerks, little government activity was carried on in the various departments today. Party leaders from all parts of the country made the rounds, calling on cabinet officers. There were impromptu receptions everywhere. At the capitol itself, the visitors were treated to the spectacle of congress in its death throes with all the traditional confusion and chaos that goes with a dying session.

Job Seekers Absent.
Today's milling throng differed somewhat from inaugural crowds in other years in that the hordes of job seekers that descend on the capital every four years in search of berths, were absent. President Coolidge is carrying on with largely the same personnel that has served him in recent months, and what vacancies there were have been filled.

The White House inaugural party was completed today with the arrival of Colonel John C. Coolidge, the president's father, who will have been one of the few Americans to have witnessed his son's being formally inaugurated. Mrs. Coolidge's mother, Mrs. Lamira Goodhue, of Northampton, Mass., already is at the mansion, and John Coolidge, the president's son, arrived from college today to complete the family gathering.

Woman Heads Governors.
The incoming governors were headed this morning by Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross, governor of Wyoming. Others scheduled to arrive during the day and early tomorrow morning were the governors of New Hampshire, Connecticut, Delaware, Indiana, Iowa, Nebraska, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Ohio, Maryland, Colorado and North Carolina.

Lieutenant Governor Lowman of New York will represent Governor Smith.

Various receptions and entertainments are being held preparatory to the governor's ball at the Congressional Country Club tonight and the official inaugural ball tomorrow night. President Coolidge will take part in none of these social diversions.

ORDER OF DE MOLAY PREPARES BUSY PROGRAM

The regular meeting of Colonial Chapter, Order of DeMolay was held Monday night in the Masonic Club rooms on Wall street.

There was a large attendance and several matters of importance were brought up before the meeting. The social committee reported that the arrangements for the dance to be held March 13th were nearly completed. The dance is expected to be a great success. Invitations are to be mailed very soon.

Sunday, March 15th, the local Chapter will hold church services at the St. James M. E. Church assisted by Roudout Commandery of Knights Templar. The public is cordially invited to attend the service.

A committee appointed by Master Counselor, Jeffrey Pennington, is arranging a program for a "fun meeting" to be held the last Monday of this month. All members are requested to be present for an all around good time.

To listen up the meeting, Frederick Buchholz and Eileen Morris each sang some popular songs.

The committee to arrange a program to broadcast from Station WJZZ also gave a favorable report.

The following petitions were handed in for membership: Arthur Rayson, Victor Johnson, Richard Rieley, Milton Zarich, Howard Sharret, Albert Irwin.

The new members were then allowed to regular order and the members adjourned to another room where refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed.

Alliance Denies Blue Law Is Joke

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Albany, N. Y., March 3.—Led by Dr. John Ferguson, general secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance, blue law advocates stormed the capitol today to urge favorable action on the Jenks bill which would prohibit all labor on Sunday, theatrical performances, motion pictures, public or social dancing, or sports, where fees are charged.

Dr. Ferguson took issue with a statement made last week by Assemblyman Jenks, that the bill was a "joke."

"This measure is no joke even though it will be attacked by strong opposition," said Dr. Ferguson.

"The Lord's Day Alliance recognizes the rights of all who take issue with their program," said Dr. Ferguson. "That there are difficulties in this vital question it is conceded but we only wish to face all those questions in a constructive way and on the basis of the highest good for the greatest number of people and with the largest measure of justice for all."

The hearing was scheduled to be held before the Assembly codes committee of which Assemblyman Esmond, Republican of Saratoga, is chairman. The Jenks bill is one of the most drastic blue law measures ever presented to the Legislature.

Germany to Have Special Election
By Telegram to The Freeman.
Berlin, March 3.—Germany will choose a successor to President Ebert on March 29, the Reichstag decided today. The presidential elections were scheduled for May, but the Weimar Constitution provides that the Reichstag enact legislation to choose a new president, in the event of an incumbent's death.

Germany prepared today to bid a dignified farewell to her first president at the formal funeral ceremonies here tomorrow.

The streets through which the cortege of Friedrich Ebert will pass en route from the palace were decorated with red wreaths draped in black. Half a dozen fifty foot flag poles flying the Republican colors have been erected in front of the station from which the body will be taken to Heidelberg, the famous old university town where President Ebert will be laid to rest among the scenes of his boyhood.

A school holiday has been ordered in Berlin for Thursday morning. German trades unions have issued a manifesto arranging for a fifteen minute pause in all work at the hour of the interment ceremony at Heidelberg tomorrow.

Among the innumerable wreaths from monarchs, presidents and dignitaries of foreign countries was a big fir wreath entwined with lilacs from the American embassy. The office of S. Parker Gilbert, agent general for reparations, sent a lilac wreath with roses.

Enemies of the dead president continued their attacks as the funeral plans went forward.

"Rote Fahne," "The Red Flag" organ of the German Communists, under the headline "Workers' and Presidential Elections," assailed Ebert as "the agent of monarchists and the white generals who saved capitalism Germany from Bolshevism."

Pope Celebrates Mass.
Rome, March 3.—A mass for the late President Ebert of Germany was celebrated in the Consistory Hall by Pope Pius today before six hundred German pilgrims.

The holy father said he was greatly saddened by the death of Ebert.

"I pray for him, for his relatives, for all the German people," Pope Pius said. "When you return home tell your people of my love for your country."

Baseball Fans Must Help To Keep Game Going

Proved Dazzling Success as Sport But Dismal Failure Financially—Directors to go in Own Pockets to Keep Game Alive But Others Must Also Help—Their Plan Outlined.

Baseball in Kingston was a dazzling success last year as a sport but a dismal failure as a financial proposition. For some reason there was a deficit and the management was unable to pay its rental for the grounds. So baseball as it was last year financially is dead.

The directors of the Kingston Fair Grounds, Inc., do not want baseball to remain dead. It is too good a thing for Kingston. Aside from the pleasure derived from the sport it is a business asset, bringing hundreds of persons to Kingston who spend money while here.

Therefore the Fair Grounds directors are planning to continue baseball and take over the financing and financial management of the Colonials. They will cut all needless expense. Everybody who is paid, aside from the ticket seller and ticket takers, will play ball. John Robins, catcher, and Mattie Deegan, infielder, will act as captain and manager respectively, and will also play ball. No other manager will be employed.

To put this over requires money to outfit the club and a guarantee fund to assure its continuance during any "lean streak" that may come. The Fair Grounds directors are putting up $200 each of the guarantee fund and expect at least 10 other dead game sports to follow their lead.

Then, in order that the plain, ordinary fans may show their sincerity, they are to be asked to purchase tickets at $5, each good for 15 games. The admission will be 50 cents; grand stand 25 cents. So for $5 in advance the fan may buy $7.50 worth of tickets.

The Fair Grounds directors mean to have good baseball but they mean to put hard-headed, practical business in the financial management. They believe it will pay directly financially. They know it will pay indirectly by bringing to Kingston potential purchasers of all kinds of goods.

Fled to Avoid Fortune Hunters
By Telegram to The Freeman.
Albany, N. Y., March 3.—A Kingston girl credited with having sought domestic employment in Albany to be Rill of Them—Friend of Jean Le Marc.

An Albany newspaper has printed a fanciful story telling how Miss Catherine Simmons, a former Kingston girl, has fled to Albany to avoid fortune hunters and sought seclusion from the social whirl of Kingston in taking up housework in Albany. The girl, who is 18 years old, is now employed as a domestic in the home of Mrs. John J. McCall, of No. 421 Washington avenue, Albany.

According to the Albany newspaper the girl will receive a legacy of $300,000 from the estate of her father when she becomes 21 years of age.

Her father, Fairfax Simmons, died in a hospital here about four years ago following an operation for appendicitis. He was employed as a laborer by one of the local dock building concerns. There is no record in the Ulster county surrogate's office of Mr. Simmons leaving any estate.

According to the Albany newspaper, "Miss Simmons, heiress to the fortune left her by her father, Fairfax Simmons, of Kingston, a wealthy contractor, fled from Kingston to avoid fortune hunters and suitors whom she was certain were after her money. When seen at the home of Mrs. McCall, Miss Simmons gave a resume of her life and attainments. She was born and has always lived at Kingston, received her early education at the public schools of that place and later attended a private school, with the idea of going to college. She was fated and unfortunate as is natural for a girl in her position, until she became weary of the life, and, as she said, 'I knew many young men, all of them proposed to me, and in my heart I felt they were only after my money, which I shall come into when I attain the age of twenty-one.'"

"With this in view I decided to leave and start out by myself. The life of a working girl appealed to me. I came to my mother, Mrs. Priscilla Chase Dean, who lives in Kingston. I took a position in a factory, then I tried nursing. Finally I answered an ad. of Mrs. McCall, calling for a housekeeper. I applied, we seemed suited to each other and I have been working here for some time. I enjoy running a house and planning the meals, and feel that at last I have reached the niche in which I belong."

"The eternal round of teas, matinees, dances and bridge luncheons which a girl in my position feels is her life was very tiresome to me, so here in Albany I submerged my ordinary, every day life. None of my friends, with the exception of my closest girl friend, Joan Le Marc, suspected that I was an heiress."

Three of Family Burned to Death
By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, March 3.—A Mrs. Elsie Carroll, 33, her daughter, Ruth, 6, and her son, John, 8, were burned to death, and a dozen persons injured, two of them seriously, when fire destroyed a five story brick tenement in Brooklyn today.

A 6 year old boy, Louis Labryere, was thrown from a third story window by his mother, who became panic stricken. The child sustained a broken arm and leg.

Six firemen and a policeman were overcome by smoke.

Men, women and children in the burning building were carried down fire escapes and across adjoining roofs to safety. Families in nearby buildings were forced into the windy cold by the rapid spread of the flames, which were confined to the tenement, however.

The fire started on the ground floor of the building. A policeman who saw the flames sounded the alarm and then ran through the smoked filled building awakening the occupants.

On the third floor of the building a policeman found the unconscious form of a 14 year old boy and carried him to the roof. There he collapsed. Firemen rescued him and the boy.

Mrs. Marie Labryere banded her four year old daughter, Margaret, to a policeman, who had run up a fire escape awakening families. Fearing for the safety of her son, Louis, she dropped him from the window. Mrs. Labryere was rushed to a hospital. Louis, 6, Labryere, her husband, Louis, 55, and two other children were severely injured before being rescued.

Patch Tupper's Decision

By WILLIAM M. ROUSE

(© 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

WHEN folks on Coon mountain said that Patch Tupper was shiftless it was because they did not understand his soul. That he was content to live in a two-room shack with his hound dog, Pedro, was because he had never seen any other condition of life that promised adventure enough in the getting of it.

"Tain't lively enough," was Patch's reply to every offer of a job.

That was his feeling about matrimony until he met Rose Garvey at a kitchen dance on Solomon's flat. Then his lean and muscular and good-looking six feet roused to action.

"Rose," he said, huskily, "I want you and, by crissum, I'm going to have you."

Scarlet flamed in her cheeks. Her mouth suddenly lost its curves and little lights played in her black eyes. Patch stepped forward and swung her up over his shoulder.

With a double armful of wildcats he would have had a comparatively peaceful trip over the shoulder of the mountain. She left red furrongs down his cheeks before he got her wrists under control; then she bit his ear, and he had to shift her under one arm, like a bundle of old clothes. Before he got her fairly settled she had blacked an eye.

At last Patch set her down carefully in his own kitchen, and jumped back out of range. He set his back against the door and took out his watch.

"We got five minutes left before the Reverend Simmons gets here," he said. "He's coming to marry you and me. Maybe you want to fix up a little. No use urging, Rose, for I made up my mind."

The fight lasted three of the five minutes. It ended when Patch got her over his knee and spanked her with a hearty hand. To his surprise, when that was over, her arms went around his neck; she hid her face against his shoulder.

"I guess I love you, Patch," she whispered. "I thought you never would show any spunk!" The rest of that day was filled with joy for Patch Tupper. The gold ring upon the hand of his wife gleamed like a beacon of happiness. She cooked the best supper he had ever eaten in his life.

It was in the cold hours just before dawn that the first rift appeared. Pedro, the hound, came as had been his privilege from puppyhood to share his master's bed when the kitchen grew chilly. A yelp and a thump awakened Patch. He explained Pedro's habits.

"That dog can have a blanket and a feather pillow and a ribbon around his neck. If you want him to," said Rose. "But I never slept with a dog yet and I shan't begin this spring!"

"My dog can sleep wherever he wants to!" Patch told her, indignantly. Just how it happened he never knew, but before he could gather himself for defense his head was being bumped against the floor.

"Dog!" panted Rose. "Kitchen!"

"All right!" yelled Patch. "It's too late to argue tonight!"

Patch Tupper was not of the stuff that yields without fighting, but he got tired. Rose was never tired. However, when Saturday of that first week came she went too far.

"Patch," she said, giving him a cake of yellow soap and a towel, "go down to the creek and take your bath!"

"My bath!" he cried. "I ain't got any particular bath!"

"You're going to have one," she told him. "Every Saturday, summer and winter, the year 'round!"

With a yell of defiance Patch Tupper flung down the soap and leaped through the doorway.

"They's some things a man won't stand!" he shouted, from the safety of the steps, and then he bolted for the woods.

Patch nursed his wounds upon a rocky ledge. Hours passed, and with the placid stillness of the May night an idea came to him. He had got his wife by main strength and daring; by boldness and main strength he would take her back to her father's house and leave her there to think it over for a while.

With the stealth of a panther he approached his house and got a coil of half-inch rope from the woodshed. Except for the ticking of the clock all was still in the kitchen. He stepped over the threshold of the bedroom.

A thousand streaks of fire shot before his eyes. He melted down, sliding against the wall, with his head rolling feebly. A light flared up and he saw Rose, with her saboned head like a burst of flame about her head. She certainly was a good-looking woman. She carried a stick of storewood handily as she came and stood over him.

"What was you fixing to do with that rope?" she asked.

"Why... Rose... I wasn't going to hurt you any!"

"Patch," she said, earnestly, "did you never lick me the day we was married?"

"Well, Rose, I kind of thought I did."

"Then you thought wrong! I hadn't even started to fight! Think it over! The question right now is whether you're going to take that Saturday bath, or whether I got to give it to you!"

"Rose," said Patch Tupper, "I made up my mind to take it. They's no use of arguing about it tonight."

A Masquerade Dance.

A masquerade dance will be held at the Grand Hall this evening under the auspices of the Workmen's Circle, No. 125. Prizes will be awarded and a good time is promised all who attend. Music will be furnished by Zucca's string orchestra.

OFFICE CAT

By JUNIUS

When a man marries money it's usually a case of true love.

Late hours are the only kind the young man can keep; others have a habit of getting away very fast.

A beauty doctor says wrinkles on the face and neck may be eradicated by standing on the head, a position which should also prove useful in preventing falling of the arches.

Marie—So you've given up the idea of taking singing lessons?
Harold—Yes, I found out it would take me three years to learn to sing as well as I thought I sang already.

Congressional Record appears with some of its print upside down—thereby enabling many members of congress to read it without changing position.

What Do You Think?

We fear we'll intrude on a stocking called nude.

That stocking transparently thin; And the owner will squinch when we give it a pinch.

To learn if it's stocking or skin.

No need for such fears, just look back a few years.

When you looked on the form of a girl; It may not have been real, but ne'er did you feel.

To see if 'twas bustle or hip.

When Gabriel finally arrives, as per advance notices, we fear that he will be compelled to use some great broadcasting station in order to get the attention of the multitude.

More New Proverbs.

"Where the hostess is beautiful, the wine is good."

"When a man is happy he does not hear the clock strike."

"The most wasted of all days is the day when we have not laughed."

"If you would understand men, study women."

"Is the boss in?" asked the bill collector.

"No," growled the office boy.

"You're a liar," retorted the bill collector. "If he wasn't in you'd be doing cross-word puzzles instead of being so darn busy."

"Huh!" remarked Mrs. Grouch. "a railroad crossing watchman says women are better drivers than men."

"Why shouldn't they be?" growled her husband. "They've got nobody in the back seat giving them orders."

The little boy next door says: "Life may not be all it is cracked up to be, but the graveyards are full of guys who would gladly exchange with you."

Two men were becoming abusive in the course of a political quarrel.

"I think," cried one of them, "that there is just one thing that saves you from being a barefaced liar."

"What's that?" asked the other. "Your whiskers," was the reply.

Talked to Death.

Necessity and Opportunity met on the street. "Hello, Opportunity," said Necessity. "You look all in."

"I am all in," replied Opportunity. "For months I've been knocking at the doors of offices and all I ever hear is that the occupant is in conference."

Many a man can tell a woman just how the country ought to be run, but he can't tell her why he put the screwdriver in the medicine chest and left his hat in the baby's crib.

You can't work up a revolution in a land where nothing really worries the common people except static.

Growers Discuss Fruit Culture

Three Meetings in Southern Ulster Under Auspices of Ulster County Farm Bureau—Prof. Parrott Gives Valuable Information.

Three meetings were held in the southern part of Ulster county last week at which fruit culture was talked over. The speaker at the meetings was Prof. P. J. Parrott from the Geneva Experiment Station.

Wednesday afternoon a meeting attended by fifty fruit growers was held at Highland and Thursday afternoon a similar meeting was held at New Paltz. Thursday evening a meeting was held at Marlborough with 75 in attendance.

At the three meetings Prof. Parrott spoke on various insects and fruit diseases. In his talks he followed out the spraying program throughout the season, giving information as to control of diseases and pests as they appear throughout the season. He paid particular attention to apple scab and rosy aphid and laid particular stress upon the use of oil sprays. Oil sprays for fruit demand a careful knowledge by the fruit grower of the quality of the spray. He advised those who use them to be very careful in their use and also to be very careful in selecting their spray material. Oil spray material should be purchased from a reputable concern and he cautioned those who expect to use them to be very careful where they purchased the material as inferior material would cause injury if the spray was not what it should be. These three meetings under the direction of F. M. Wigsten of the Ulster County Farm Bureau were of great help to the fruit growers and some valuable information was secured.

Bengaline Faille Worn at Southern Resorts

Showing smart costume of white bengaline faille, trimmed with contrasting color of the same material. May be worn with knee-length jacket of same material. It promises to be one of the spring and summer fashions.

Variety of Crowns for Dainty French Millinery

Collections of French models show a manifold variety of crown types. One thing evident about all of the crowns, however, is that they do not go in for the extreme in height, but describe the medium high types instead. Many of them incline to the sugar-loaf type, or have little creases down through the center or the sides, in ridge or helmet effect. There is a little turban of navy crepe on which Eliane uses an all-over vermilion embroidery of gold thread and colored medallions. Another from Antoinette shows the roll front, large brim with the short back which carries the rounder crown. This is made of navy taffeta with insets of Tuscan circles in natural color set through the brim and on the crown tip, while the facing carries an embroidery of red beads used like polka dots.

A charming little toque from Madeleine is collapsible in effect and could be used for day or evening wear. It is made of large cordings of black satin crocheted in effect and in pattern, while the tiny brim is developed in points of black milan. The satin cordings are so constructed that the hair is seen through.

An eight-section tip is developed by Villaret for a red bengaline model with a daring front cuff that is embroidered in a tuscan flower pattern and a large galathia pin trim up the crown side. Ombre rattail flowers are used all over a crown of a small shape from the same maker.

Latest Fancy Is for Fine Enamel Novelties

That any novelty in the class of accessories remains unexploited is surprising. The style market has long been stocked with the smaller articles of dress, growing ever more kaleidoscopic. The arts and crafts of the Old World have been introduced in all of the jewelry, trimmings and ornaments. We have been surfeited with the real things in jade, amber, opals, coral, quartz and their limitless imitations. Tooled and illuminated leather, carved ivory, the most lovely examples of petit point—all have been and some still are fashionable.

The very latest fancy is for enamel, highly prized a quarter of a century ago. There are adorable examples of fine workmanship in figures, scraps of "still life" and groups, in miniature, portrayed in the delectable colors, and all the pretty Dresden tints.

There appears to be in all the smartest shops a growing interest in petit point. It has become very popular. It is made into bags and many other lovely small things, and is used as motif in frocks. But the latest novelty is a suede-lined jacket of cut velvet woven into a perfect imitation of petit point in an old French tapestry design. With this is a soft, close hat made to match the coat.

Old Pale Gold Is Used in New Earring Designs

Earrings grow larger and longer, and a style creator foresees earrings a foot long. Some of the new-old examples that have been found in an antique shop are fashioned of the old pale gold, joined in serpentine sections and set with old-fashioned stones—faceted, old things studded with garnets, matching a medallion garnet, brooch and necklace.

If one wishes to hark back to strict Victorian, there is also a bracelet of the same pattern, chased gold, with a rowette of the garnets. White sapphires, turquoise, opals, amethysts, all of these old-time stones of lower value are used to make the earrings more ornate.

The amusing fashions of wearing one's birthstone is again here, and many attractive rings, pins and brooches are set with them.

We have decided to continue our shoe sale until and including Saturday, March 7th.

"Chipso takes the ache out of WASHING"

THAT'S how a West Virginia woman put it the other day.

A mother in Erie, Pa., said: "I have a family of six children—five of them boys. They get their shirts and trousers awfully dirty, but Chipso does the work, and I use less of it than with I chipped my bar soap."

"I never knew how easy it was to wash clothes until I tried Chipso," said a young housewife in Canton, Ohio.

"Chipso has everything beaten for dishwashing. It's the finest thing I have ever had." This from a Cleveland woman.

If you haven't tried Chipso, buy one of the blue and orange packages today—it saves your strength and your clothes.

THE LURE OF SOFT SILKS.

(By Eleanor Gunn.)

An interesting commentary on the success of flat crepes was given by a person who has had considerable experience in catering to the vanities of womanhood. So long as women revel and rejoice in being slim, said he, so long will only such materials as are slenderizing in effect be in demand.

Flat crepes and dull surfaced materials generally are helpful in simulating svelte lines. Cotton fabrics, no matter how interesting in design, do not make for smooth lines—they are too inclined to cling to the figure, revealing its worst as well as its best features. The criterion went on to state that only such materials as were smoothly surfaced were practical and smart for the present simplicity of mode which he sees as one in which line and detail are of greater interest than fabric.

Down south, this winter, where all the leisure class congregated and wore glad raiment, flat crepes were generally accepted, and tub silks which were dull rather than glossy of surface, were chosen for two-piece sports frocks—the favorite of the year.

Several striped shirtings and awning-striped silks were worn, and the smartest were those which, cut off white altogether, or had it incidentally introduced, the ground being color. A chic woman wears striped silk made with pockets, which is in itself an innovation, striped silks being on straight lines. The silk is a raspberry and yellow stripe, blended by a soft gray. Another silk which has been encountered several times is soft yellow and blue, in one-inch stripes with narrow ones of white and gray.

The striped silk frock seems to have developed as a factor among popular-priced merchandise, although there are some really smart women wearing morning frocks fashioned of stripes in unusual colorings, with white omitted or incidental.

READ WHAT THEY SAY

"I very gladly write this word of commendation of 'The World's Oldest Passion Play,' the production of which I witnessed at Keeney's yesterday. My attention was riveted every moment of the time. Your production has helped me to visualize more accurately the events which actually occurred at the time of our Lord's Passion."

REV. WILBUR FISKE STOWE
Pastor, The Reformed Church of the Comforter.

"Let us show producers and theatres that when a picture like the Passion Play is presented that we appreciate their efforts to give us 'better productions.' There is nothing I can conceive of to do good than witnessing this superb drama 'The Freiburg Passion Play.' I wish you every success."

CHARLES J. MULLEN,
Sec. R. P. O. E., No. 550.

"A worthy presentation of the greatest story that can ever be told. Remarkable! It stirred and thrilled me. I enjoyed it immensely."

WILLIAM H. GUGGAN.

"Your motion picture presenting 'The Freiburg Passion Play' is well done. The picture is true to the Gospel narrative, reverent in tone, and whole-some in effect. It cannot fail to have an uplifting influence on all who may see it."

REV. J. WILBUR TETLEY,
Pastor St. James M. E. Church.

Women Want Good Government

Representatives of More Than Thirty Civic Organizations Express Willingness to Cooperate in Selecting Aldermen and Will Discuss Plans Friday.

On Friday afternoon of last week, in response to an invitation from the Federation of Women's Clubs of this city, some thirty-five representative women of this city, members of patriotic, civic and religious organizations numbering more than thirty, met at the Kingston City Library in the interest of good government in this city.

Beginning with the aldermanic candidates for election, the women expressed themselves very strongly in favor of co-operating with the men of the city in seeing to it that before the next election there are placed in nomination men who will represent the best interests of the community.

It was agreed that the best way to bring about the desired result would be by presenting the following resolution to Philip Elting, chairman of the Republican Committee, and Mayor Block, the real head of the Democratic organization, which was done, a committee of six women—three Republicans and three Democrats—confering with Mr. Elting on Saturday and with Mayor Block on Monday. Judge Schirick, the Democratic state committeeman, was also seen and given this resolution:

At a meeting of thirty-five representative women of the city, held at the Kingston City Library on Friday afternoon, February 27, it was resolved that these women, all members of some thirty-five various women's organizations in the city, interested in good government in Kingston, especially our local aldermanic officials, express themselves as wishing to cooperate with you in an effort to place in nomination for the next election, men best fitted for such offices.

All three of the men expressed willingness to consider the co-operation of the women of the city, so all those women who were present at the Library last Friday afternoon, and just as many others as are interested in this movement for good government in this city, regardless of politics, are asked to meet on Friday afternoon of this week at 3 o'clock at the Y. W. C. A. to make further plans for getting all of the thoughtful women of the city to attend necessary caucuses, primaries and elections in the future.

This movement is absolutely one of co-operation with the men of the community in the interest of good local government.

FAMOUS FORTS IN U. S. HISTORY

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

Where "Star-Spangled Banner" Was Born

It is doubtful if ever America had known a darker dawn than the morning of September 11, 1814. Washington had been captured and burned by the British; our small navy had been driven to port by superior numbers; our army in Maryland had been defeated, and on that morning a British fleet sailed into the Patuxent river, headed for Baltimore, which the enemy hoped to capture.

The only obstruction to this scheme was a little fort three miles below Baltimore at Whetstone point on the Patuxent. Fort Mifflin was its name. A small fortification had been built there in 1776 and a more pretentious structure erected on the site in 1794. The only defensive force it could muster was a body of untrained troops, who would be called upon to defend their post against British veterans fresh from the continental wars—Wellington's Invincibles and Nelson's marines, winners at Trafalgar and the Nile. So the outlook was gloomy enough, for if Fort Mifflin fell, Baltimore fell, and America lay at the mercy of the invaders.

Early on the morning of September 12 the battle began with an attempt by the British soldiers to storm the earthworks which had been hastily thrown up to aid in the defense of Baltimore. That attack was repulsed by a storm of shot, slugs, scrap iron and nails from the American guns, which killed or wounded more than 900 British. The next morning the fleet advanced to bombard Fort Mifflin. All day long the battle raged, but the defenders of the fort under Col. George Armistead held their own.

Among the men who watched the progress of the battle was Francis Scott Key, who had gone to the British fleet to obtain the release of a friend, a civilian arrested by the British on a charge of firing on them. All day long and far into the night he followed the fortunes of the fighting forces with painful intensity. He did not believe that Fort Mifflin could possibly hold out.

Then "at the dawn's early light" Key looked toward the fort and through the smoke and mist of morning he saw that "our flag was still there." With a heart overflowing with joy he sat down and wrote the words of the song which a nation has ever since been singing—"The Star-Spangled Banner."

Ancient Works of Art

A vase with a secret, a fifteenth-century Chinese production, with a "secret" design, the only known specimen of the period of the Emperor Hung Chih (1488-1506), has just been acquired by the British museum. It is decorated with green dragons, but the "secret" design, almost invisible at first sight, represents rocks standing out of waves, and was traced very finely and faintly with a needle stylus before the vase was glazed. "There is no special significance so far as I know in these secret designs," said an official of the museum. "It is simply a feature of Chinese art." The carved figure of a bull found in Babylon, and believed to be about 5,000 years old, minus legs, arms and tail, has also been added to the collection. It is thought that it was used for religious purposes.

Nora Bayes, famous comedienne, has been married aboard the liner Leviathan, in mid Atlantic, to Benjamin Lester Friedland, wealthy New York garage owner, who thus became the actress's fifth husband. Borah of Idaho, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, has denied reports from Moscow that he will take up the question of American recognition of Russia with Soviet representatives at an early date. Unable to get a match with Mike McTigue, world's champion light heavyweight, Gene Tunney, American champion, has relinquished his championship and announced that in the future he will fight only in the heavyweight division.

Method of "Starting at Bottom" Given Up

For many generations the only way one could learn to be a business man was through apprenticeship. We called it "starting at the bottom." Most of us were reared with a conception of a business career derived from the Alger books—"from train boy to president," writes Richard J. Walsh in Century Magazine.

That this idea still persists is apparent when we look at the stories of success in some of the popular magazines. Steadily, however, formal methods of education have gained ground, replacing the apprenticeship or "watch me, my boy," system.

Commercial education first appeared in our public schools about 1900. It grew naturally out of the multiplication of industrial occupations. At least one-fourth of the jobs today are utterly unlike any that our grandfathers had to do, and many of them such that the boys could not teach them, because he never mastered them himself. F. V. Thompson says:

"Commercial education was perhaps the first subject to be adopted by the high school as a concession to the public desire that the school should furnish preparation for vocations."

By 1915 we were spending more for the commercial course than for any other in our city high schools, and at least one-third of all pupils in the high schools of large cities were enrolling in commercial courses, while business training for adults was being offered in evening and continuation classes.

Not All in America

The average Briton who knows anything about America never fails to think that some American town names like Oshkosh and Yuba are the funniest things that ever happened. However, they forget the queer town names in their own tight little island.

For instance, there is a Nasty in Herefordshire and a Mucking in Essex. Norfolk boasts of a Great Snoring.

In Lincolnshire one finds Swineshead Cowbit, and Dripping Gore in Kent. Yorkshire also has a match for Yuba Dam.

It has Dam Flank! Then there are other odd ones like Hellous Bumpstead, Toller Porcorum, Heck, Over Wallop and Nether Wallop, Barton-in-the-Beans and Lynesack-and-Sotly.

Well in the Money

Pirates' Leader Declares Pittsburgh
Nine Has Been Greatly Strengthened
by Deal With Chicago.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Pittsburgh, Pa., March 3.—The captains of a major league baseball season are too many and varied to justify any man in venturing an advance guess. William D. ("Bill") Mc-Kechnie, skipper of the Pirates crew, and in answer to a request for an expression of opinion on his team's chances to win the 1923 National League pennant.

"You can count on the Pirates finishing in the money," the Pittsburgh manager declared. "We have a good team, with the veterans of several seasons to balance the pep of the fast youngsters from Chicago and minor league teams."

"I know that we ought to finish at least third but it may be that a month of bad luck from injuries, or a slump, will smash our hopes."

Is Enthusiastic.

The Buccaneers boss was enthusiastic over the results he expected from the trade Barney Dreyfus made with the Cubs, giving Maranville, Cooper and Grimm to Chicago in exchange for Aldrich, Niekro and Grabham.

"The trade is going to help us a lot this season, but it will be a potential factor in two or three players from Chicago are on the upgrade now," McKechnie said. "The Pirates have already gotten more than ten seasons of good service from Cooper, and I don't think we could count on him to help us much longer than two or three more years."

McKechnie had only praise and high hopes for the young players he nursed along last year and for the new ones coming to the training camp this year. Eddie Moore, the second baseman from Atlanta who showed so well in 1922, is almost assured the regular second base berth this year, McKechnie believes.

Praises Rookies.

"Al Niekro will also help us in the pennant fight," the manager said. "He was sought after by many teams as one of the ablest players in the minors last year. Louis Koupahl, the pitcher we got from Omaha, and Don Senger, the Oklahoma City southpaw, are both natural players who will win many games for the Pirates. All of our regulars have improved, either by mail or telegram, that they are rounding into excellent form. Carson Bigbee, who plays a come back, may be played at first base. The Pirates feel good for another big season, and Glenn Wright, who broke all records for accepting challenges last year, will move them adequately cover us at shortstop."

Even Bill Adams, hero of the Pittsburgh-Detroit world's series of 1909, is lumbering up for what Mc-Kechnie hopes will be Pittsburgh's greatest season in a decade.

"After beating Chicago 2 to 1 in extra innings in the last game we played in 1922, Charles writes me that his arm feels better than it has felt for years, so the Babe can be expected to give much assistance," McKechnie added.

of the Pirates, which will add approximately 12,000 seats to the grandstand at a cost of approximately $750,000 are about to be started by Barney Dreyfus.

Morris Berg, infielder, and former Princeton university star, has been released to Reading of the International league by the Brooklyn Dodgers. He was with Minneapolis on option last season.

Irish Parke led American jockeys last season with 202 victories in 512 third in 117 races. Thirty jockeys have ridden more than 20 winners on Amer-state, $2,110,515 was paid out to own-racing.

who were the American field in the 1924 Olympic games have announced their permanent or temporary retire-

Rickey Is Glad of Scandal Clean-Up

Branch Rickey, manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, in a recent address referred to the "O'Connell Dolan scandal" as "a fly on the nose of baseball that has been effectually chased by a sweep of a strong hand without serious injury to the sport that is still clean."

Manager Rickey denied reports that the Cardinals had considered selling Rogers Hornsby to the Chicago Cubs for $500,000.

HARTNETT BEST OF NATIONAL CATCHERS

Placed First in List of Back-stops by Manager Killefer of the Cubs.

Just before the close of last season
Manager Killefer placed Leo Hartnett first in the list of National league catchers.

There is a great deal of justification in the pick choice. Hartnett has attracted the attention of everyone who follows baseball. As soon as he was given a chance to play regularly he jumped into the lineup. His enthusiasm regardless of the position of the team in the standing or of the score, and his continual efforts marked him as a star. Behind all his liveliness Leo masks a shrewd baseball brain. He has more than once displayed an ability to make lightning decisions.

There is no reason why Hartnett should not develop into one of the best catchers of all time. He is still young and has much to learn. But with the help of Killefer who was without question the leading backstop in his time, he has all the advantages he may wish for. Occasionally last year he showed his inexperience. Sometimes he failed to play a runner neatly and cleverly, but this was due to his youth. No matter how difficult the play, how poor the throw from his teammates, he always made an effort to get his man.
There are very few indeed who can equal him at catching foul flies near the screen or the boxes. He found it difficult sometimes to stop ground balls, but he made up for this by many sensational plays.

Hartnett has one of the most powerful arms in either league. His shots to second base are true and straight, but occasionally he makes a wild heave with damaging results.
It must not be inferred from the number of games Hartnett caught last season that he will be the first-string man this year. Bob O'Farrell, veteran, is not by any means out of the running. He had some hard luck in 1922 and was obliged to take a back seat.
As soon as he began to play with more regularity he returned to his old stride.
O'Farrell is not a spring hitter, but when he does find his batting eye he has no trouble scoring runs. The coming spring training period will find the two veterans battling for the right to be called the first-string catcher.

Eugene Criqui May Box
Again in This Country

Eugene Criqui, French boxer, once holder of the world's featherweight championship, may again enter the ring. He is quoted in Paris as saying that several offers have reached him from South America and although he has accepted none, one still is being considered and if it turns out to the advantage of Criqui he says that he doubtless will accept.

"I said, after my defeat by Danny Frank, that I was through with boxing," Criqui said, "and I meant it. I still believe that the ring holds no more championships for me, but I am convinced that there are only a very few boxers who are better than I am. If I can be of service in the ring, I will go back—not as a determined championship contender but as a boxer and fighter."

"Under no consideration," the Frenchman continued, "will I put on the gloves again only to stage mere boxing contests. I will go into every battle, if I do return, with the intention of winning that bout and nothing else will stop me from trying. That is my position in the matter."

Devoted Card Party.

On the afternoon and evening of Friday, March 2, a devoted card party will be given under the auspices of Clinton Chapter, O. E. S. No. 445, at Masonic Lodge, rooms, Wall street,
Bridge and pier will be played.
There will be prizes and refreshments. The public is invited.

Girl Is Swim Star at 16

Miss Eleanor Garratt of San Rafael, Cal., who although but sixteen years old, has done 50 yards in 0 29 1-5 and 100 yards in 1 05 or better several times and won the women's national indoor championships in 1922. Miss Garratt is entered for the national title tests at St. Augustine, Fla., February 9 to 13.

Harry Hooper, Sox Star,
Proves Odd Golf Player

Harry Hooper of the Chicago White Sox is one of the greatest outfielders in the history of the game.

While not a great hitter, Hooper is regarded as a most dangerous batter.
He has a fine eye and is a hard man to pitch to. Hooper bats left-handed.

In the field Hooper has achieved even greater fame than as a batsman.
Recently John McGraw, in an article on great plays he has seen, credited Hooper's catch which saved the 1912 world series as the greatest effort he ever saw.

It is not unusual for a ballplayer to bat left-handed and throw right. Aside from being a great ballplayer, Harry Hooper, like many other diamond athletes, plays a mighty good game of golf.

It is on the golf links that Hooper has done things in a manner that is contrary to all the ethics of the game.

"Never saw any golfer play the game quite like Harry Hooper," says the famous pro, Mike Brady. "When I was located in Boston and Hooper was with the Red Sox he was a regular visitor on my course."

"Hooper plays all his wooden shots left-handed and his iron shots right-handed. Such a thing hardly seems possible, yet Hooper plays a very good game."

Promotes His Son

Earl Mack, Philadelphia Athletics
baseball player, and son of Connie Mack, owner, who has been made the captain of the team by his dad. No favoritism has been shown in this move. Earl is known as a clever player, inheriting quite a bit of the Horan lapped the field following the Georgetti-Belloni pair, these teams are in the lead. Six teams are

SCHAEFER LEADS IN BILLIARD TOURNAMENT.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Chicago, Ill., March 3.—The international 18.2 balk billiard tournament went into its final stages today with the title all but awarded to young Jake Schaefer, whose playing has provided the thrills of the contest.

Willie Hoppe, champion, was defatedly in the discard as a result of his disastrous defeat by Edouard Hore-mans, Belgian, last night. Hore-mans counted 400 in seven innings with a high run of 212 and an average of 56.7, while Hoppe with difficulty accumulated 36, with 21 as his high run. Hoppe's average was only 5 1-7, making it his second heaviest defeat in his career.

Horemans's victory put him into a tie with Erich Hagenlacher, which will be broken this afternoon when the two meet. Hoppe and Schaefer meet tonight and should Hoppe stage a comeback and defeat Schaefer there still remains a possibility of a tie for first place.
